

The Greenville Housing Authority

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR MONTHLY REPORT
AUGUST 2014

RESIDENT SERVICES

EXTREME COUPONING 101 Back by popular demand! Ms. Matrulene Johnson returned to the Brookhaven Resident Services office to conduct another Extreme Couponing 101 class. She taught the residents how to save money on their food costs with tips such as the best time of the month to shop for groceries, which stores double the coupons, websites from which to print coupons, and where to obtain periodicals containing special, little-known sales.

BACK-TO-SCHOOL SUPPLY DRIVE Forty-four children from the Brookhaven and Westview Apartment Home communities received free school supplies as a result of a partnership between the Greenville Housing Authority and the Ford Motor Credit Company. We were able to provide each of these children with most of the required items on the list supplied by the school district.

100 BLACK MEN OF THE UPSTATE

100 Black Men is a nationally recognized leadership and mentoring organization for youth ages 12-17. The Upstate Chapter meets monthly at the Brookhaven Resident Services office to mentor the youth, and make plans for any excursions and recreational activities for the following month. Above, Gregory Stephens, President of the Upstate chapter, instructs one of the members in the proper etiquette of self-introduction and public speaking. The group excursion during the month of August was a Greenville Drive game.
