

The Greenville Housing Authority

JUNE 2015

RESIDENT SERVICES

For Father's Day, children were given the opportunity to write about the Father-figure in their life in order to receive free tickets to a Greenville Drive baseball game. Janyla Sanders wrote a heartwarming letter about why her Step-Dad is so special to her. In return, the Greenville Housing Authority provided 4 tickets to any Greenville Drive baseball game this season, a gift card to Bertolo's Pizza, and a gift card to Spill the Beans Ice Cream Shop, all on Main Street in Greenville. We also framed Janyla's letter so that she could present it to her Step-Dad. We hope they enjoy their Daddy/Daughter day hanging out downtown!

Resident Services partnered with Greenville County Redevelopment Authority, Greenville County Human Relations Commission and Community Works Carolina to host a Homeownership Dream Tour for former and current participants of TGHA's Family Self-Sufficiency program. The tour started with a presentation by GCRA and Community Works Carolina explaining the particulars of program eligibility. Long Branch Baptist Church provided transportation to tour five homes for sale in Greenville County. GCRA provided lunch after the tour.

TGHA breaks ground on the new senior citizen building, the Manor at West Greenville, on Manning Street.
